

GRHAM CUMMINS STAND OF GRAHAM TOLD

Seeking Reconciliation
Explanation in Address
At Siff.

William J. Graham, chairman, seeking reelection to the house of representatives, last evening in a speech at the Graham-Cummins bill, an explanation of his position in the bill which he has been severely criticized in certain circles of the house of the fourteenth district.

Graham said: "The first regular session of the house, two bills were introduced, one in the house called the Graham-Cummins bill, and one in the senate called the Cummins bill. I was not a member of either committee, having charge of the bill in the house. The senate bill had an anti-strike provision in it. The house bill did not. The conference was unable to agree and the conference was had between the two houses.

Meanwhile, the president had announced that the railroads would go back to private ownership March 1, 1920. The house conference brought in and submitted to the house the question of whether we should oppose the senate anti-strike provision. I voted against the senate provision. The conference was presented and a final vote was taken a few days before the president Feb. 23, the day before private ownership was established. Then it was either this act or nothing. With no legislation at all, the railroad would have ceased to function.

Will Consider Amendment.
"I do not say the act is perfect. It needs amendment. I am ready to vote for all necessary amendments. My mind is entirely open on this subject."

But Mr. Cox and my Democratic opponents say you ought to vote for them. Why? The Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, signed the bill. If it was so obvious why did he sign it? He said in doing so: "It marks a new era in railroad management." Does Mr. Cox and my Democratic opponent propose to reject Mr. Wilson in this matter?

The Democratic national platform says with relation to this railroad bill: "There should be a fair and complete test of the law." Then why vote for Democrats if they propose to continue this law and make the fair and complete test of it? Will Mr. Cox and my Democratic opponent follow their platform or will they repudiate it? My friends, this is simply Democratic propaganda, but if my Democratic opponent proposes to stand in the Democratic platform what claim does he privately urge in support of his candidacy? Is he for government ownership and operation of railroads?

Does Not Prevent Strikes.

"Again it is claimed that this bill prevents strikes. It does not do so. If it did, I would not have signed it. The conference report, I have always maintained and do now maintain the right of workmen to bargain collectively and to strike if they so desire. There is no such provision in the bill. That went out with the death of the Cummins provision. The decision of the labor board under this bill can be accepted or not, as desired, and after such a decision is made, the employees may strike if they so desire without any provisions to prevent it."

"It is said, the railroad labor board created to adjudicate labor controversies is unfair. It is composed of 'Three members constituting the labor group.' Three members constituting the public group.' If this body is apt to be unfair to labor, as having in its membership representatives of the public, why did Mr. Gompers, at the time conference, agree to the formation of an international labor body, known as the peace treaty of Versailles, as 'The General Conference of Representatives of the Members' which is to be composed as follows: 'Four representatives of each of the members of whom two shall be government delegates and the other two shall be delegates representing respectively the employers and the work people of each of the members.' Is this not the same principle except that in the railroad bill, the public has a third representative and in the international labor conference, it had one-half? If the idea is bad, why did Mr. Gompers adopt it?"

Eye Specialist and Medical Author Report on Wonderful Remedy To Strengthen Eyesight

Say It Strengthens Eyesight 50% in One Week's Time in Many Instances

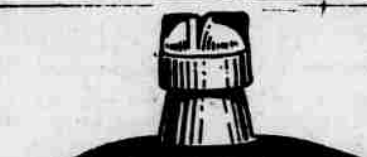

New York.—Dr. Smith, a well known eye specialist, and Dr. Judkins, a Massachusetts physician and medical author, make the following reports after a thorough test of a popular remedy for the eyes.
Says Dr. Smith: "When my attention was first called to it I was inclined to be skeptical. But it is a rule of mine to give every new treatment a chance to prove its value. Having specialized in eye work for many years I feel qualified to express an intelligent opinion on remedies for the eyes. Since this one has effected such a sensation I welcome the opportunity to test it. I began to use it in my practice a little over a year ago and I am frank to say that some of the results I have accomplished with Bon-Opto not only astonish myself, but also other physicians with whom I have talked about it, and I advise every thoughtful physician to give Bon-Opto the same careful trial I have and there is no doubt in my mind that he will come to the conclusion I have. That it opens the door for the cure of many eye troubles which have heretofore been difficult to cope with. I have had individuals who had worn glasses for years tell me they have dispensed with them through the use of Bon-Opto. In my own practice I have seen it strengthen the eyesight more than 50 per cent in one week's time. I have also used it with surprising results in cases of work-strained eyes, pink eye, inflamed lids, catarrhal conjunctivitis, smarting, painful, itching eyes, eyes weakened from colds, smoke, sun, dust and wind, watery eyes, blurred vision, and, in fact, many other conditions too numerous to mention in this report. A new and striking case that has just been brought to my attention is that of a girl 12 years old. Two prominent eye specialists, after a thorough examination, decided, according to her father, that in order to save the sight of her right eye, the left must be removed. While waiting an opportunity for the operation and still undecided as to its wisdom, her father was told it would do no harm to use Bon-Opto. In less than three days a marked improvement was noticed. At the end of a week the inflammation had almost disappeared, and at the end of six weeks the eye was pronounced saved. Just think what the saving of that eye means to this little girl! Another case is that of a lady 29 years old. She came to me with dull vision and extreme inflammation of the lids and the conjunctiva was almost raw. After two weeks of use of Bon-Opto the lids were absolutely normal and her eyes as bright as many a girl of 16."

Dr. Judkins, Massachusetts physician and medical author, formerly chief of clinics in the Union General Hospital, Boston, Mass., and formerly house surgeon at the New England Eye and Ear Infirmary of Portland, Maine, says: "I have found oculists too prone to operate and opticians too willing to prescribe glasses, while neglecting the simple formulae which form the basis of Bon-Opto, which in my opinion, is a remarkable remedy for the cure and prevention of many eye disorders. Its success in developing and strengthening the eyesight will soon make eye-glasses old-fashioned and the use of Bon-Opto as common as that of the tooth brush. I am thoroughly convinced from my experience with Bon-Opto that it will strengthen the eyesight at least 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances."

Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses and many who wear glasses will be glad to know that according to Dr. Smith and Judkins there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable remedy and many who once wore glasses say they have laid them aside. One man says after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything was clear. I could read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain, caused by overwork, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and close work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long-distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now that for seven years have looked like a dim green blur. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or mislaid glasses. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It is dispensed under guaranty by all good druggists in this city including Kensington's Drug Store and Red Cross Pharmacy.

Major Dalrymple Quits Prohibition
Post in Central District

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Major A. V. Dalrymple, prohibition enforcement officer in the central states district at Washington, it was announced at the federal building today.

Rumors have been current for months that he had resigned or would resign, but each time they were denied. His territory includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.
